SecureMessaging — SMSG

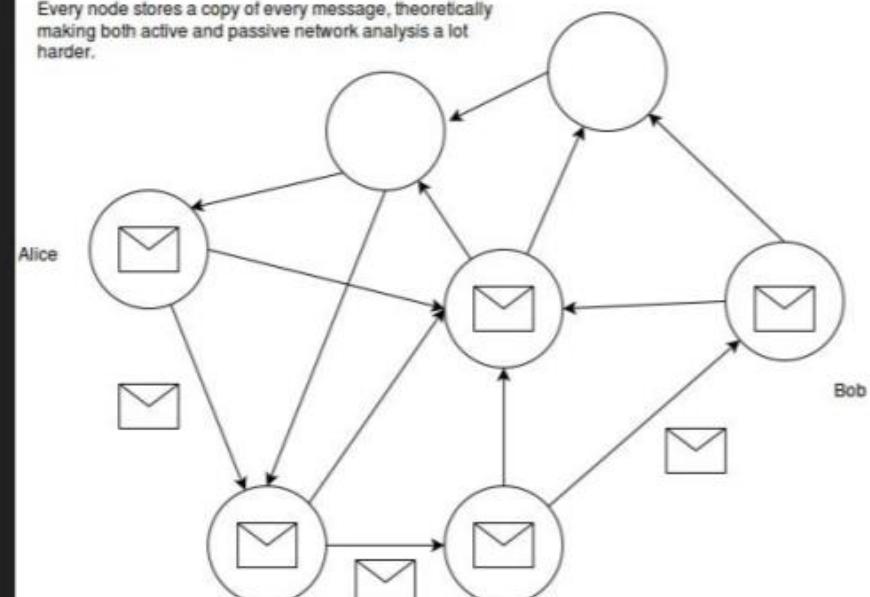

particl•

"A decentralized network where every node store all encrypted messages for 48 hours."

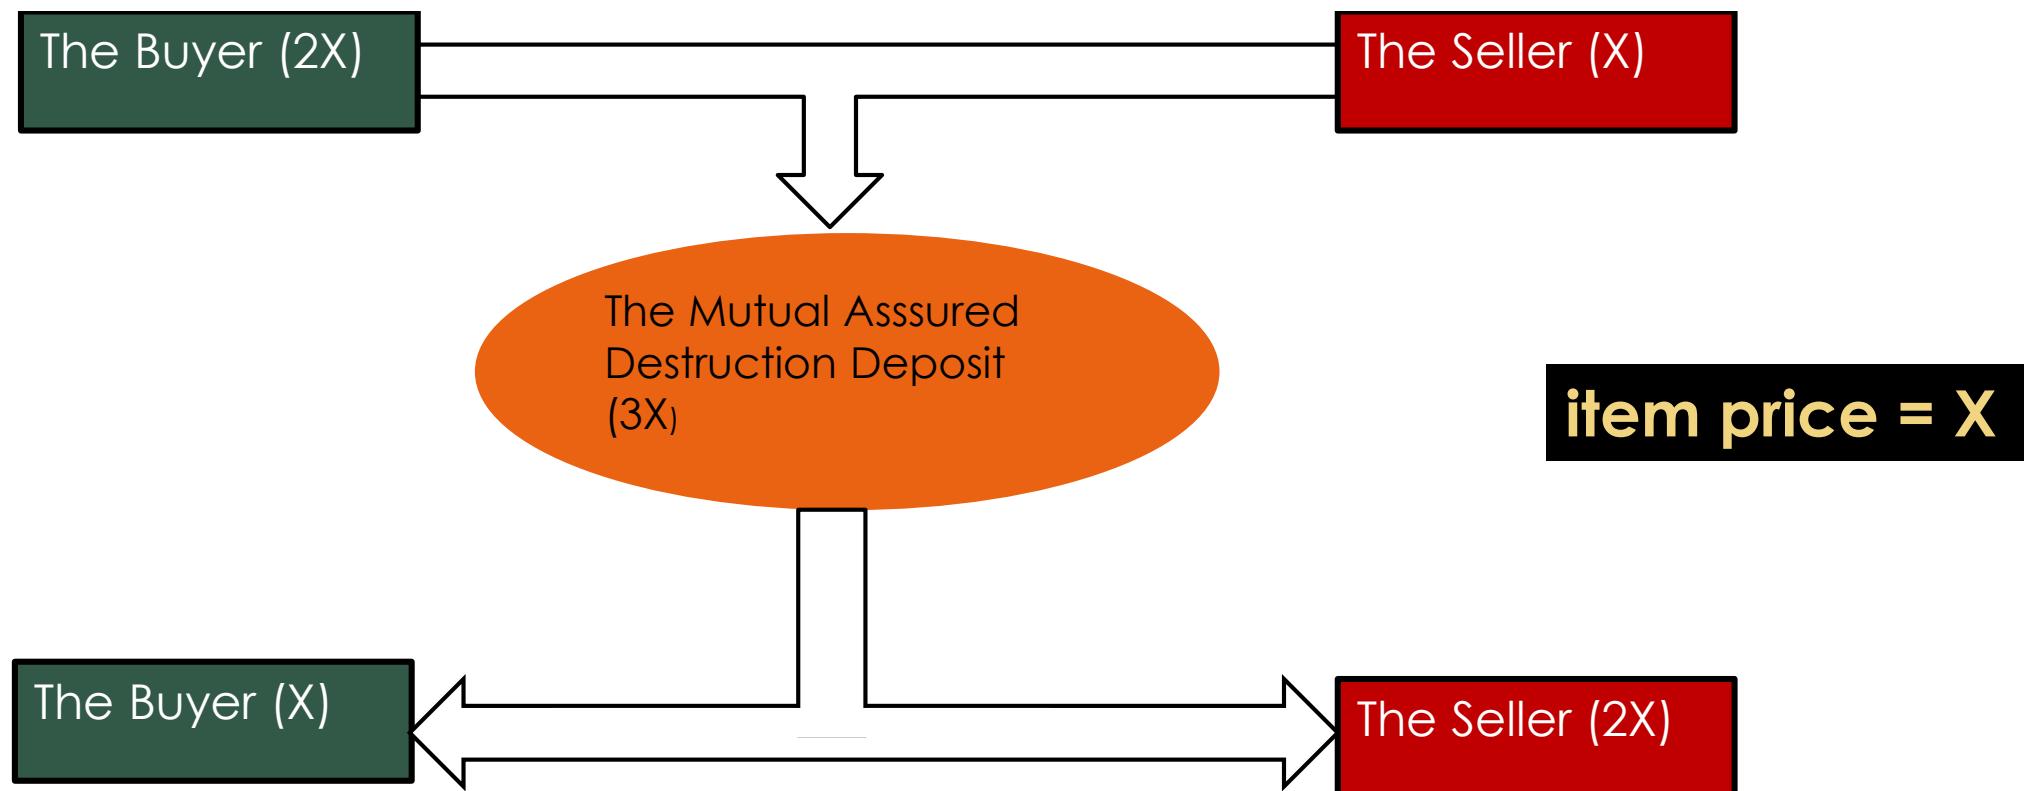

- A variant of BitMessage (Python, OpenSSL)
- Operates over the same networking stack as particl-core (C++, libsecp256k1)

Network topology

Every node stores a copy of every message, theoretically making both active and passive network analysis a lot harder.

PRODUCT INFO

1p-lsd is a research-chemical which appeared on the market in 2015, the molecular structure from 1p-lsd looks a lot like LSD. It runs in the same family molecules, also, it is also a homologous from ALD-52.

ALD-52 is an analog from LSD that can easily pass the blood-brain barrier. Its effects are close to the effects from LSD. Also, it is a homologous from 1p-lsd. In general, there are more visual effects with ALD-52, and it's easier to process for your brain in comparison to LSD-25. So there are fewer "bad trips" with associated fears than with LSD-25.

Subjects described surprising visual deformations, it was like getting reacquainted with their childhood amazement, utterly fascinating colors, euphoria, fears and confusion.
